IT'S ALMOST D DAY—This is a typical scene on Donor Day for blood to be used in local cases by the Greensboro Chapter of the American Red Cross. This is known as the bottle section. Donor Day will be in Cone Mills Communities on January 26. Donors will go to Proximity YMCA regardless of the community in which they live. This year's Bloodmobile drive is functioning solely through the community and not the plants as before.

Donor Day January 26 In Cone Mills Community

"D" Day for men and women of the Cone Mills Community is January 26. "D" Day is Donor Day at the Red Cross Bloodmobile which will be set up at Proximity YMCA from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. that day. Recruitment on a community basis, rather than through the mills as has been done on past visits, has been under way for 10 days, with a number of civic and church groups assisting.

The Citizens of Greensboro and Guilford County have had the benefit of this community service since July 8, 1952 and have supported it with their blood donations and their financial contributions in the Annual Red Cross Fund Campaign. There are, however, still many questions about the program. Some of these are answered below.

1. Q. How many pints of blood are provided through Red Cross Greensboro last year?

A. 4,152 were given in local hospitals, clinics and the sanatorium, from July 1, 1953 to June 30, 1954. In the last six months of last year, 2,231 pints of whole blood and 75 units of serum albumin were used locally.

2. Q. Was there any charge for this blood?

A. No—in fact, one cannot buy blood in our hospitals now. There is a hospital laboratory fee of $10.00 per transfusion for necessary lab work and solutions.

3. Q. How is this blood given through Red Cross gotten to the patient?

A. Volunteers donate at the Bloodmobile. The blood is taken to the Regional Blood center in Charlotte, typed and tested. Local hospitals request a supply of blood by type and Rh. This is sent to them and on hand when the doctor orders a transfusion. If enough is not donated at the Bloodmobile and the supply is not available to the hospital, it is necessary for Red Cross to call donors direct. This means delays which do not

BIRTHDAY AT REVOLUTION—Cone Eureka Velvelette was first produced at Revolution Flannel Plant 25 years ago. Although the plant has been producing flannelettes for 62 years, the first printed flannel was not made until 1930. "Birthday Party" in celebration of Eureka Velvelette will be seen on WFMY-TV, Sunday afternoon, January 23 at 4:45.

Sunday's T.V. Program To Feature Employees

A 15-minute television program Sunday afternoon, January 23 at 4:45 on WFMY-TV, Channel 2, will mark the celebration of the 25th birthday of Cone Eureka Velvelette, printed flannel produced at Revolution. Participating on the program as models for night wear made of Cone Eureka Velvelette will be Cone Mills employees or their children. The Cone Maids and the Cone Mills Quartet will also be seen and heard on the program. All participants in the show are to be at station WFMY-TV on Phillips Avenue at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, when rehearsal will take place.

Brief Remarks

Along with the singers and models there will be brief remarks by President of Cone Mills Corporation Herman Cone, Vice President Marion Heiss and Revolution Superintendent Coley Phillips.

Garment Makers

Cone Eureka Velvelette garments are being made by Bates Nitewear and Greensboro Manufacturing Company, both regular customers of Cone Mills. Representatives from these local firms will also be on the program.

Posters announcing the program are now on bulletin boards at Revolution Flannel Plant and at the two garment manufacturing companies.

Newest Patterns

Costumes for the television performers have been made from the newest patterns. There are now 95 different patterns, the largest range ever produced.

The T.V. audience will see some of the newest floral, geometric and juvenile designs, not in color television, however.

Plant 62 Years Old

Although this program will observe the silver anniversary of the printed Velvelette, the Revolution Flannel Plant has been producing plain flannelettes for 62 years.

Largest In World

When the flannel plant was built in 1899 it was named Revolution Cotton Mills because it was to revolutionize the cotton textile industry in the South. Today the Revolution Flannel Plant is the largest mill in the world devoted exclusively to flannelettes.

Long Service Employees

Two hundred and sixty-two employees at Revolution have been with the company for 25 years or more. Sixty-two of them have a record of 35 to 50 years employment. (Continued on page 4)

FAMILY AFFAIR—Cone Velvelette is a good all-round family night-wear fabric. Employees of Revolution, children and grandchildren of employees there will model garments made of the printed flannelette on Sunday TV show at 4:45 p.m. Cone Maids and Cone Mills Quartet will also wear Eureka Velvelette garments.

Five Plants Record No 1954 Lost-Time Injury

During 1954, five Cone plants has no-lost-time-injury records, three for the first time. They were Tabardrey at Haw River, Edna at Reidsville and Revolution Rayon. The two others were Power Plant and Guilford Products Company. Tabardrey had over a million man-hours with no lost-time injuries.

Reducing lost time injuries by large percentages, and probably qualifying for safety awards, were: Randleman, one injury in 1954; six in 1953; Minneola, three injuries in 1954; 11 in 1953; Rayon Dyeing and Finishing, two injuries in 1954; nine in 1953; Central Maintenance, one injury in 1954; four in 1953; Knox (Construction, one injury in 1954; three in 1953.

Proximity and White Oak plants each had less injuries on 1954 than in 1953 although final figures are not complete.

Electricians, Pineville, Print Works, and Revolution all had more injuries during the past year than in 1953.

Total lost time injuries for all Cone plants within the Company-wide safety program will be slightly over 160 for the year of 1954.

Reward

Lost in Proximity on Thursday, January 13, boy's yellow gold Bulova wrist watch with leather band. Call Alton Caviness, telephone 3-9572, address 1034 Vine Street. Reward.

SALISBURY PARTY—This third shift Spinning Department group at Salisbury Plant got together for a supper in the plant one night before Christmas. At the close of the shift the employees exchanged gifts.

SUGGESTION WINNER—Robert Sutherland, employee at Edna Plant, Reidsville, is another employee who's suggestion paid off. Mr. Sutherland's idea was to have a "double latch" on the filling spinning frame to enable the yarn to begin winding around the quill near the middle instead of at the end. This prevents one thread and from sticking out and possibly getting into the rings. Also, it assists the battery filler in getting hold of the proper thread when placing the filling in the battery.

We Salute

The Textorian takes great pleasure in calling to the attention of its readers a television program next Sunday afternoon, January 23, at 4:45 p.m., over Station WFMY-TV, Channel 2.

Participating in the program will be employees of Revolution and children and grandchildren of employees of the mill. The committee handling arrangements and selecting the participants is composed of employees with more than twenty-five years of continuous association with the Company. In other words, every one of the committee was active with the mill when Eureka Velvelette flannel was born.

The Textorian today salutes those who participated in the development of this super quality printed flannel and who have been engaged in helping to manufacture the cloth for the past twenty-five years.

DOGS

by Farley Manning

Barkless Dogs?

It's a far cry from Africa to the suburban community of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., but this true story about a Basenji puppy closes the gap between the two. A Basenji is often called the barkless dog of Africa, and it's true that dogs of this breed cannot bark. But they are not entirely soundless, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Diamond of Dobbs Ferry discovered recently. Actually the Basenji makes some peculiar noises, something between a yodel and an out-of-tune violin.

The Diamonds recently bought a cute Basenji puppy, a brown and white, short-haired fellow with a curled tail and deeply furrowed forehead which gives the breed its characteristic frown. He was so well behaved that they thought it quite safe to go out to dinner one night and leave the puppy alone.

As they were driving home they heard the sounds of police sirens getting louder and louder. On approaching their home they realized, with shocked amazement, that police cars were coming from all directions and stopping in front of their house! They dashed inside and found the place full of cops with drawn guns, with the puppy greeting one and all in a most friendly manner. The only thing wrong the police could find was that the telephone receiver was off the hook, and this helped them reconstruct the "crime." The pup had become bored and lonely, had entertained himself by tearing up a few magazines, then had yanked the phone off its table. The telephone operator told the rest of the story: "When I heard a lot of weird, unearthly cries I was sure a murder was being committed, so I called the police."

Barkless to be sure, but don't let

9-5 Daily 9-12 Saturday

This Week On T.V.

On January 9th, "Omnibus" presented the first in a series of plays concerning the Adams Family. Through the eyes and lives of this remarkable family, "Omnibus" seeks to document two centuries of the American Republic's most formative period. In the first program, the life of John Adams, successor to George Washington in the presidential post, was dramatized. This Sunday at 5:00 o'clock on WFMY-TV, John Quincy Adams, son of John Adams, legislator, President of the United States, and architect of foreign policy, will be the star of "Omnibus." Dr. Allen Nevins, winner of the Pulitzer Prize for biography and professor of history at Columbia University, will again be the narrator for the drama.

"Sunday Theatre," this Sunday at 9:00 p.m., on channel 2 offers "The Martyr," a stirring story of a civil war's aftermath. History however leaves the United States to travel to the shamrock island for a moving drama of the Irish Civil War in 1922. Ronald Reagan co-stars with Brian Aherne in the story of a captain who makes peace with England, but turns informer when he is accused of a crime and finds his life threatened.

Saturday and Sunday mornings are truly children's days. Saturday at 10:30 a.m. and Sunday at noon, Jack Barry introduces the winsome little cartoon elf Winky Dink for a half hour of fun on "Winky Dink and You." Especially designed for younger children, the program features exciting new games and entertains them with magical stories of the adventures of Winky Dink and his friends. This Saturday a woodpecker that can't eat wood because it gets the hiccups will be drawn by the younger set. Then, a submarine story in which Jack Barry and Mr. Bungle, the comical landlubber, go underseas and meet a wiscracking fish, is featured. This is the second chapter in the exploits of Winky Dink and his pal Dusty Dan in the South American jungles.

"TeleStory Time" is a regular channel 2 feature of Monday afternoons at 4:30. Through the cooperation of the Greensboro Public Library, Mrs. Elinor Hawkins comes to the large studio and against a colorful story-book background, entertains youngsters with two stories. One of the stories is read from a big book and the other Mrs. Hawkins either tells or pantomimes while the camera shows viewers pictures that go along with her story. An additional feature of the popular program is interviews with the boys and girls who appear in person to listen to tales from never-never land.

Little Talks With Big Thoughts

Did you ever notice how prone we all are to put God on a dead line, or time schedule? As if He were a news reporter, or writer, or a train engineer.

A small child prays for a beautiful day tomorrow for a picnic; a farmer prays for rain within the next twenty-four or forty-eight hours; a distraught business man prays for finance to meet the next day's business; a young boy prays for a car for his sixteenth or eighteenth birthday; a nation prays for peace by Christmas.

If events turn out in the time specified, we say, "How wonderful." If they do not, we confuse our faith. We don't even give God the credit of reasoning or foresight that we ourselves are proud of possessing.

Perhaps, He sees the disappointment for the child, if the picnic did not turn out as expected. The danger to the young teenager. The changes that the business man could make himself. The destruction of a sudden hard rain early and unformulated peace.

How much better it is to believe that in time all prayers are answered and perhaps the better for waiting.

You are cordially invited to Birthday Party

The 25th anniversary of Eureka Velvelette

WFMY-TV

Sunday, January 23 -- 4:45 P. M.

Our friends and neighbors are invited to join with us in celebrating the 25th anniversary of printed flannels — one of the many Cone Mills "firsts" that have helped build employment here in Greensboro. Our youthful "nightgown models" — the children and grandchildren of long-service employees — will share the spotlight with employees of our Revolution plant where Velvelette is produced. Our models were selected by an employee committee drawn from our 25-Year Club — and we're proud to say that one committee member was on our team 26 years before Eureka Velvelette was introduced a quarter of a century ago.

We are proud of our team — we are proud of Velvelette — and we thought you might like to share our Birthday Party with us.
